ABSTRACT

Methods and materials for the treatment of human meningococcemia are provided in which therapeutically effective amounts of BPI protein products are administered.